Albany, NY, 02/05/2020 — Since 1999, the Preservation League has highlighted New York's threatened historic sites through the Seven to Save list, which provides enhanced services from the League to bolster visibility and build support for preservation. Through partnerships with groups and individuals, threats to dozens of at-risk buildings, landscapes, downtowns, and neighborhoods have been reduced, and in many cases, eliminated by the Preservation League's listing and subsequent actions. Press conferences, tours, grants, and new legislation are among the strategies the Preservation League uses to secure the future of at-risk historic places. The League also collaborates with advocates, elected officials and other stakeholders to craft preservation strategies and put these plans to work.

"These Seven to Save selections bring attention to fascinating diverse aspects of The Empire State's rich, eclectic built history," said Preservation League Seven to Save Committee Chair Caroline Rob Zaleski. "Each threatened site represents a particular approach to engineering and architecture, as well as specific public purpose and sociology."

"Our 2020-21 Seven to Save list helps tell the story of the many people who made our state unique," said Preservation League President Jay DiLorenzo. "A sacred burial ground, a vulnerable lighthouse, a reimagined high school, a susceptible beachside enclave, an iconic canal system, a para-architectural installation, an imperiled research center; each site speaks to what makes our state special."

The Preservation League announces one of our Seven to Save sites is in Greene County:

- Hudson-Athens Lighthouse | Hudson River, Greene County
Threat: Deterioration, lack of public awareness, loss of visual/architectural integrity
The National Register-listed Hudson-Athens Lighthouse was constructed in 1874 and is one of only seven remaining Hudson River lighthouses (of the original 14). While the US Coast Guard maintains the light, the nonprofit Hudson-Athens Lighthouse Preservation Society stewards and maintains the structure. Many think the Coast Guard has building maintenance responsibility beyond the light, presenting fundraising challenges for the nonprofit, which has completed some building stabilization projects. After almost 150 years of providing direction, the lighthouse suffers from deterioration and its caretakers need additional visibility to spotlight its importance and unique preservation challenges. This Seven to Save designation will bring increased attention, awareness, and assistance to the lighthouse, so that the Lighthouse Preservation Society can preserve the building for years to come.
"We are delighted with the designation of the Hudson-Athens Lighthouse as one of the Seven to Save by the Preservation League of NYS," said Carol Gans, President,

Preservation League of NYS

Hudson-Area Lighthouse Preservation Society. “This recognition will be a big boost to our efforts to build awareness of the need for structural repairs, new volunteers and new donors for the future of the Lighthouse. Our objective is to build on this icon's role in the history of our communities by giving it a new and more connected role for today and the future.”

The 2020-21 Seven to Save List also includes:

- New York State Barge Canal System | Multiple Counties
Threat: Development pressure, lack of public awareness, loss of visual/architectural integrity
- Richard Lippold's *Orpheus and Apollo | New York County
Threat: Development pressure, lack of public awareness
- Central Technical High School | Syracuse, Onondaga County
Threat: Deterioration, development pressure, lack of public awareness, loss of visual/architectural integrity, vacancy
- Parrott Hall | Geneva, Ontario County

About the Preservation League of New York State

Since its founding in 1974, the Preservation League has built a reputation for action and effectiveness. Our goal has been to preserve our historic buildings, districts and landscapes and to build a better New York, one community at a time. The Preservation League of New York State invests in people and projects that champion the essential role of preservation in community revitalization, sustainable economic growth and the protection of our historic buildings and landscapes. We lead advocacy, economic development, and education programs across the state.
